

Native planting projects to address erosion

These projects utilize a sediment log at the water's edge and an erosion control blanket with native plants on the bank.

